Talk by

Mostafa Abdel-Meguid

"In this talk Mostafa will explore the architectural style change of Cairo's urban fabric since Ismail Pasha's Ismailia, until today. He will use a simplification of Pierre Bourdieu's Theories of Capital and Thorstein Veblen's Conspicuous Consumption for his analysis of the subject at hand. He will also include his own project of study, which is the revitalisation of Darb El Labbana, a neighborhood in Al Darb Al Ahmar area and how it can be viewed using the same lens to which we examine Cairo through."

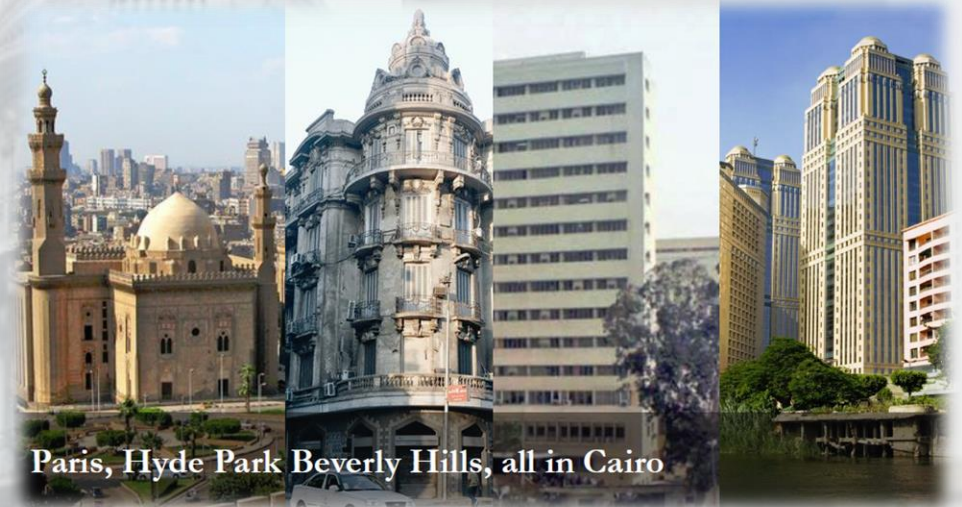

*On Friday 5th October 2018 at 7pm
Reception starts at 6.30pm*

Biography

Mostafa Abdel-Meguid is a current MA candidate in the Creative Cultural Entrepreneurship programme at Goldsmiths, University of London. He is focusing on the revival of the historical neighborhood of Darb El Labana in Islamic Cairo, hoping for it to be a hub for reviving vernacular architecture, craftsmanship, aesthetics, and create both creative and cultural opportunities in the area which will benefit the local community.
